

JUDGE BLEDSOE IN PLEA TO SUPPORT WRIGHT BILL

Federal Jurist Gives Views On Various Amendments on State Ballot

Those who attended the annual meeting of the Federated Brotherhood of the Glendale churches last night declared it to be the most successful and best attended affair since the organization ten years ago.

The members gathered at the Central Christian church last night at 6:30 o'clock, starting off with a banquet. At 7:30 o'clock the annual election of officers was held, following which the meeting was addressed by Federal Judge Benjamin F. Bledsoe, who spoke on the many propositions that are to come up at election time.

Rev. Clifford A. Cole pronounced the invocation. R. F. Kitterman told of the need for cars to take the Anti-Saloon singers and speakers in and about Los Angeles where they will speak during the next several weeks.

The members of the organization are making an active fight for the Wright law. Y. M. C. A. Campaign

The work of the Glendale Y. M. C. A. was outlined by David Black, who declared that the local organization is doing a constructive work. He declared that on October 29, 30 and 31 a campaign will be made to raise $4,800 or more and urged the men to lend their support.

The nominating committee was composed of H. E. Fry, H. A. Wilson and H. A. Horn. Following suggestions as to officers for the coming year as outlined by the chairman, Mr. Fry, the following were elected for the ensuing year: President, George P. McDill; first vice president, R. F. Kitterman; second vice president, James H. Garney; secretary, W. B. Kirk; and treasurer, George Daugherty.

The retiring president, Mr. Garney, instructed the new president as to what the organization stands for. He declared that to a number of them they were against booze, cigarettes for boys, the establishing of pool rooms in Glendale, and public dancing, especially among high school girls and boys.

Easy to Endorse
Mr. McDill responded briefly, saying the platform is one that is not hard to endorse or stand for. (Continued on page 7)

Plan Harry Girard Testimonial Matinee

A testimonial matinee will be given Tuesday afternoon, October 24, at the Morosco theater, Los Angeles, for the benefit of Harry Girard on the fortieth anniversary of his debut on the professional stage.

"Abie's Irish Rose" will be presented by the Morosco Stock company. The program will be augmented by numerous headline vaudeville acts and the personal appearance of prominent motion picture stars.

Report that Mr. Girard had broken his hip again was denied this morning at his home, 230 South Louise street, by Miss L. M. Buehler, of 916 North Central avenue, who has been his nurse since the accident. She stated, however, that the fracture had not healed as well as desired and that Mr. Girard must remain quiet for a few days longer.

She asserted that another X-ray will be taken of the hip in a few days. If improvement is lacking, it will be necessary to put it back in the plaster cast again. This will mean that Mr. Girard will be confined to his home for a month or six weeks.

Besides a number of prominent citizens of Glendale who have tickets for the benefit performance for sale by mail from Frank C. Egan, proprietor of the Egan school, 1324 Figueroa street.

The benefit is under the personal supervision of: William T. Wyatt, president The Los Angeles Theater Managers' Association; C. L. Bagley, of The Musicians' Mutual Protective Association; C. C. Joy, of The Actors' Equity Association; L. R. Wharton, of The Los Angeles City club; James V. Westervelt of The Optimist club; Sim Crabill of The Uplifters; James Taylor Foyer of The Elks; Walter Paul of the Knights of Columbus; W. B. Kelly of the National Exchange club; Lyman P. Clark of the Kiwanis club; Frederick Sullivan of the Motion Picture Directors' Association.

Jiu Jitsu Contest Is Offered Tonight

Prof. Ishi Togo is appearing on the Modern Woodmen's card to be given tonight at the Yeoman hall at 1500 South San Fernando road. He will meet Joe Kelly, athletic instructor of the Los Angeles Junior High school, in a jiu jitsu contest.

This is a return match and promises real thrills because in their previous bout Kelly threw Togo in forty-seven minutes, using the "Flying Mare" tackle, which put the Oriental professor in the hospital for three weeks. Upon regaining the use of his arm the Oriental has been asking for "just one more chance."

Glendale Avenue Intermediate School, Built At Cost Of About $90,000; Accepted By Board of Education

ARCHITECT A. F. PRIEST'S DRAWING OF THE GLENDALE AVENUE INTERMEDIATE SCHOOL. The new building was formally accepted at a meeting of the board of education last night. The new home for education is of typical California architecture, and, with the old pepper trees on the grounds, presents real California atmosphere. Architect Priest declares that every modern convenience in school building has been included in the new structure.

Located on one of Glendale's finest pieces of property, the Glendale Avenue intermediate school, on Glendale avenue, between Acacia and Park avenues, which cost $90,000, was formally accepted last night by the board of education from A. F. Priest, the architect, stands as one of the finest plans of its kind in California. It is declared.

It is a typical California school, the Italian Renaissance architecture, brown brick exterior, terra cotta entrance and Spanish tile roof being particularly effective for western architecture. An added feature furnishing some real California atmosphere are several shaggy old pepper trees on the school grounds. With these trees forming a nucleus for a landscape gardening plan, the school buildings and grounds when further developed, will undoubtedly be one of the city's show places.

Practical and Artistic

In planning the building, Mr. Priest incorporated into his plan everything in the way of modern school facilities. The visitor to the building is impressed with the practical and artistic arrangement, the adequate and pleasing lighting and the perfect harmony of the whole structure.

The main entrance of the building is on Glendale avenue. Terra cotta has been used in the construction of the large doorway which opens into a large hall with hallways running north and south and two stairways leading to the second floor.

There are six class rooms, an administrative office, domestic science rooms, library room and shop rooms on the first floor. Each room is adequately and comfortably lighted and ventilated and an additional feature is the restful shade of the Nile green used by Mr. Priest in the wall tint. A harmonizing color is also found in the painting of the woodwork.

Domestic Science

Of particular interest are the domestic science and shop rooms. The domestic science room is large and splendidly equipped. There is the large laboratory, fitted with tables, drawers, cupboards, large stoves, sinks, stationary tubs and kitchen utensils. There is a small office room and a large pantry for storage purposes.

The shop room is of equal size and modernly equipped. Adjoining the large room is a lumber room with outer entrance and also a tool room.

On the second floor there are five class rooms, finished in the same style as those on the first floor, and used to accommodate various classes.

Future Additions

The building covers a ground area of 150 by 70 feet, and in making his plans, Mr. Priest has made ample provision for future additions.

In the center of the building, directly opposite the east entrance will some day be located an auditorium with a seating capacity of 650 persons, and an eighteen-foot stage. This addition will undoubtedly be made in the near future and in considering this Mr.

Priest has provided large doors just opposite the east entrance and leading onto the west campus. On the second floor, directly above these doors, he has provided space for a projection room to accommodate a generator and a motion picture machine.

Securing Equipment

Mr. Priest has also taken into consideration the addition of a north one-story wing with two or three class rooms, and the addition of a one-story south wing with cafeteria and two class rooms.

In the basement are located locker rooms, wash rooms, a central steam heating plant gas fed, and a ventilation room with exhaust fan delivering 8,000 cubic feet of air.

As yet the building is not fully equipped, but Norman R. Whittick, the principal, his teaching staff, members of the school P. T. A. and members of the board of education are co-operating in working out plans for further equipping the new building and developing the ground.

PROSPERITY WAVE GROWS STEADILY

C. L. Cyphers of Harrower Laboratory Tells Business Conditions In East

C. L. Cyphers of 105 South Belmont street returned to his office at the Harrower Laboratory yesterday after an absence of over four months during which he made an extended business trip throughout the United States.

Branches of the Harrower Laboratory were visited at San Francisco, Portland, Denver, Kansas City, Chicago, New York, Baltimore and Dallas. Other cities visited were Richmond, Virginia; Atlanta, Georgia; New Orleans, Louisiana, and Houston, Texas.

"From what little I saw I think that Southern California is the most favorable place to live on the face of this green earth," declared Mr. Cyphers upon his return.

"In New York City it costs 70 per cent of a person's income just for rents alone. You have to spend anywhere from $1000 to $30,000 a year for a flat.

"It seemed to me that things were flourishing all over. New York was as busy as a bee. In Denver things were a little slow but in Portland they seemed to be humming. The whole country seems to be in a wave of prosperity—sort of getting on its feet again after the slump.

"Nearly everybody you meet knows about Glendale and Hollywood. The first thing they ask you about is the movie stars."

James H. Howarth Tells of Big Meet

James H. Howarth, of 343 North Isabel street, was the principal speaker this noon in the Broadway Inn, 637 East Broadway, at the weekly luncheon of the Glendale Exchange club.

In company with Capt. W. B. Kelly of 106 W. Colorado street, Mr. Howarth was a delegate to the national convention of the Exchange club recently at Louisville, Kentucky.

The cordiality of Louisville towards the delegates and the high type of business men in the convention impressed Mr. Howarth particularly.

Following the convention, Mr. Howarth went to Chicago where he met Dr. Henry R. Harrower and family en route east. They stopped in Battle Creek and Detroit, Michigan, to transact business, and parted on the wharf at New York harbor after the Harrower family had boarded the Majestic for Europe.

On the return trip, Mr. Howarth visited Baltimore, Chicago, Kansas City and Denver.

BANDIT WILSON AND PALS CAUGHT

Trio Who Escaped From L. A. Jail Surrender After Being Surrounded

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 18.—Herbert Wilson, the "millionaire bandit," Guido Spingola, alias "The Mouse," payroll bandit, and Adam Ward, convicted murderer who escaped from the county jail yesterday morning, were captured in a house at West Twelfth and New Hampshire streets at 5:30 a. m. today.

The men surrendered to Sheriff Traeger and a squad of deputies and police detectives who surrounded the house without putting up a fight.

Wilson and Spingola emerged from the house with their hands in the air, shouting "Don't shoot." Ward followed them a minute later, also with his hands in the air.

The house in which the men were hiding was occupied by Tom Garwood, an ex-convict, and a woman who gave her name as Mrs. L. A. Stanage. Garwood and the woman were arrested and taken to the county jail with the three escaped prisoners.

Deputy Sheriff Bill Bright discovered the hiding place of the three men after the automobile in which they had fled from the jail had been found abandoned in front of a house in West Pico street.

When Bright learned the bandits' car had been located he acted on a "hunch" and went to the hide-out of the men whom he knew to be living in West Twelfth street and in whose place he believed the prisoners might have sought refuge.

Garwood's residence was surrounded at 12:30 a. m. by officers, all armed with rifles and revolvers. At 5:30 a. m. this morning Detective Sergeants Stelsreide and Bean approached a rear door of the place. As the officers neared the place, Wilson's head appeared from a side window. He was instantly recognized and his head drew in with a jerk.

Wilson was the first to surrender. A few steps behind him was "The Mouse." There was a wry smile on the millionaire bandit's face as he came out. He held his hands high in the air, and shouted: "Don't shoot, boys."

Spingola, his hands high above his head, also shouted, "don't shoot."

Fearing that Ward, who had not appeared, might put up a fight, the officers ordered Wilson and Spingola to march straight toward them with their hands up. But Ward followed almost immediately.

The guns used by Wilson, Spingola and Ward in their escape from the jail and the revolver they took from one of the guards were found in the house.

Purrier, formerly constable for Burbank township and now deputy sheriff and night jailer in Los Angeles, are today congratulating him on the bravery shown when he grappled single-handed with Herbert Wilson, bandit-murderer and his two pals, in their sensational jail-break yesterday.

Mr. Purrier, who carries four scars, marks of bullet wounds received from automobile bandits who shot and killed his partner, Robert Normand, July 29, 1920, on the highway between Burbank and Los Angeles, was severely beaten and mangled by the jail-breakers, one of whom hit him several blows on the head with the trigger part of his gun.

CHANGE DATES OF FOOTBALL BATTLES

Rearrange Schedule So That More May Witness Game by Trojans-Bears

That the annual U. S. C. California football game is fast becoming one of the real classic events of the grid season in the west was shown several days ago when it was announced that games in the Southern California conference, which were originally scheduled for October 28, had been put a day ahead in order that the players and coaches might witness the great sectional battle. Both the Whittier-Western and the Pomona-Redlands tilts have been moved up a day.

The day of the "big game" will mark a fitting time for the dedication of the new stadium in the Arroyo Seco, as it is estimated that 50,000 people will be in the stands when the referee's whistle is sounded. If this be the case last year's record attendance of 45,000 will easily be surpassed. Andy Smith's California Bears will go into the fray the favorites—there's no getting around that—but, it's a ten to one chance that the score will not be anything like last year's wild-eyed tussle in Berkeley. No team ever played in more adverse luck than did the Trojans that day. Playing on a hostile field with some 28,000 fans against them was enough in itself to defeat almost any team. In addition to this the Cardinal and Gold eleven entered the game in a "stale" condition, after having pointed themselves toward the Blue and Gold squad all year. As a result of this such stars as Johnny "Eel" Leasingham, "Hobo" Kincaid and others failed for the first time of the season to perform to the best of their ability, while Captain Charley Dean and Phil Terman were removed from the field early in the game.

Yes, Sure Best Squad
However, there's no use trying to deny that the Berkeleyites were the better squad, although the final score of 38 to 7 did not show the comparative difference of the two elevens. California's edge, as was agreed by most of the spectators, lay in the two end positions and in Archie Nisbit, the punter extraordinary. "Brick" Muller, Bob Berkey and Brodie Stephens are as good a group of wing-men as are to be found on any college team in the country, while Nisbit's magic toe is recognized as one of the very best in the business.

This year the same condition exists. To date, U. S. C. is without the services of a capable punter who can even approach the fineness of the California star. On the end positions Henderson is assured of better men than he had last year, but it is hard to contend that Milton and Pythian or Boice can successfully hold off the playing of Muller and Berkey. On the line, even after losing the services of the one and only Johnny Boyle, the Methodist institution will probably have it "on" their northern opponents for all-around play. The combination of Captain Leo Halland, "Swede" Anderson, Lowell Lindley, "Chief" Newman and Cummings, with Hawkins, Dupuy and Blair thrown in for good measure, appears to be considerably stronger than Andy Smith's forward wall, which includes several transposed backfield men.

Backfield Near Equal
Granted that the southerner's line is perhaps a few percent stronger than that of the Bears, the rival backfield candidates stack up as nearly equal, as far as does can point out. In Charley Erb Coach Smith has one of the brightest signal callers in the game, although this advantage may be slightly cut down through his comparative inability to carry the ball. Both Doolley and Amor Galloway are considered as fair ground gainers. At lineplugging "Bullet" Baker is the peer of either Don Nichols or Spaulding, although both of these men are as good at broken field running as one will find on the coast. Terman on full will be the fastest man on the field while Kincaid, besides being more than an average ball carrier, is one of the best interference men in the Pacific Coast conference. Nisbit's kicking, as has been previously mentioned, will bring the two backfields to an even basis.

By Davis J. Walsh
International News Service Sports Editor

New York, Oct. 18.—According to information seeping out from semi-official sources, the Olympic games of 1928 for the new Yankee stadium, now under construction, is the dream of the men who are responsible for the great arena.

As the skeleton of the great structure takes definite form, men are jaying the foundation for a quarter-mile running track with a straight-away finish in front of the arena.

The day of the "big game" will mark a fitting time for the dedication of the new stadium in the Arroyo Seco, as it is estimated that 50,000 people will be in the stands when the referee's whistle is sounded. Andy Smith's California Bears will go into the fray the favorites—there's no getting around that—but, it's a ten to one chance that the score will not be anything like last year's wild-eyed tussle in Berkeley. No team ever played in more adverse luck than did the Trojans that day. Playing on a hostile field with some 28,000 fans against them was enough in itself to defeat almost any team. In addition to this the Cardinal and Gold eleven entered the game in a "stale" condition, after having pointed themselves toward the Blue and Gold squad all year. As a result of this such stars as Johnny "Eel" Leasingham, "Hobo" Kincaid and others failed for the first time of the season to perform to the best of their ability, while Captain Charley Dean and Phil Terman were removed from the field early in the game.

Yes, Sure Best Squad
However, there's no use trying to deny that the Berkeleyites were the better squad, although the final score of 38 to 7 did not show the comparative difference of the two elevens. California's edge, as was agreed by most of the spectators, lay in the two end positions and in Archie Nisbit, the punter extraordinary. "Brick" Muller, Bob Berkey and Brodie Stephens are as good a group of wing-men as are to be found on any college team in the country, while Nisbit's magic toe is recognized as one of the very best in the business.

This year the same condition exists. To date, U. S. C. is without the services of a capable punter who can even approach the fineness of the California star. On the end positions Henderson is assured of better men than he had last year, but it is hard to contend that Milton and Pythian or Boice can successfully hold off the playing of Muller and Berkey. On the line, even after losing the services of the one and only Johnny Boyle, the Methodist institution will probably have it "on" their northern opponents for all-around play. The combination of Captain Leo Halland, "Swede" Anderson, Lowell Lindley, "Chief" Newman and Cummings, with Hawkins, Dupuy and Blair thrown in for good measure, appears to be considerably stronger than Andy Smith's forward wall, which includes several transposed backfield men.

Backfield Near Equal
Granted that the southerner's line is perhaps a few percent stronger than that of the Bears, the rival backfield candidates stack up as nearly equal, as far as does can point out. In Charley Erb Coach Smith has one of the brightest signal callers in the game, although this advantage may be slightly cut down through his comparative inability to carry the ball. Both Doolley and Amor Galloway are considered as fair ground gainers. At lineplugging "Bullet" Baker is the peer of either Don Nichols or Spaulding, although both of these men are as good at broken field running as one will find on the coast. Terman on full will be the fastest man on the field while Kincaid, besides being more than an average ball carrier, is one of the best interference men in the Pacific Coast conference. Nisbit's kicking, as has been previously mentioned, will bring the two backfields to an even basis.

BOXING PROGRAM AT YEOMAN HALL

Watson and Thompson Will Provide Main Event on Card for Tonight

Sport fans are anticipating a spirited program tonight at the Yeoman hall at 1500 South San Fernando road, where the Modern Woodmen of America will present as the chief attractions a match between Chief Watson of Glendale and Curly Thompson of Whittier, and a jiu jitsu wrestling match between Joe Kelly and Prof. Ishi Togo.

The Watson-Thompson contest promises to be a live one with the two contestants each weighing 150 pounds.

The outcome of the other main event is being awaited with interest because the last time Kelly and Togo met the Oriental professor spent three weeks in the hospital as the result of being thrown by a "Flying Mare."

Additional events will be the semi-windup between Young Harry of Glendale and Battling Ortega of Hollywood, both weighing 135 pounds; and a preliminary bout between Joe Thomas and Frank Carlson of Glendale, and Kid Sells of Los Angeles and Joe Eyraud of Glendale.

The Woodmen are running bouts every Wednesday night at 8:15 o'clock and women are invited to attend.

Marty Krug Is Due Here In Few Days
Marty Krug, of Glendale, who has been playing third base for the Chicago Cubs, has been recalled by the Angels, of the Pacific Coast league, and he is expected to arrive in this city within the next few days.

MR. KELLY PROVES TO BE A DETECTIVE

Here's Inside Story of Why Judge Landis Suddenly Appears to Yanks

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—The inside story of why Judge Landis walked into the dressing room of the New York Yanks at Fenway park, Boston, early in the season and delivered his now famous lecture to the players for gambling and skylarking, was made known today for the first time.

It all revolves around an individual known only as Kelly, who insinuated himself into the confidence of the players, ate with them, traveled with them, sky-larked with them, and he knew enough to hang them, figuratively, passed along his information to his employers. His employers were the New York American league baseball club and Kelly was a private detective. He joined the club from nowhere in Chicago during the second western trip the made, and immediately proceeded to make himself a jolly good fellow. Nobody knew him and apparently nobody cared, for Kelly was a racing handicapper second to none, handed out live tips and was a bright, little sunbeam in thinking up ways to spend dull evenings.

Cheer and Good Will
From city to city, the ball club went and with it went Kelly, radiating cheer and good will. So accurate were his tips that one player cleaned up enough to buy a new car and the rest of them did very well, indeed. On one occasion, by way of diversion, he organized a trip to a middle western brewery and after the party had departed, Kelly had the players line up for a picture with flowing steins held high.

Meantime, the thoughtful Mr. Kelly had mentioned his belief to the players that two newspaper men, traveling with the club for the first time, were in reality detectives hired to watch the players. This proved annoying, but they did not mind, for they were in the first time, were in reality detectives hired to watch the players.

Then It Happens
A very fine time was being had by all when the team reached Boston. Then the denouement. It was after the first game there that Judge Landis walked into the dressing room, unannounced, delivered his message of good cheer, naming dates, places and incidents with such accuracy that the players knew they had been sold out by someone.

Even the fact that not a few of them were fined more or less heavily was secondary to the realization that they had harbored an informer.

Suspicion for the moment rested on the two baseball writers but when it was pointed out that the pair in question attended ball games and nothing else, the players began to look elsewhere.

By the way, who was Kelly? Also, where was Kelly? Nobody knew the answer to either question.

They are just as much in ignorance now, although they would like very much to have a few words with him.

GLENDALE'S TEAM WALLOPS COVINA

Local Lightweight Squad Is Winner of Football Game by 37 to 0 Score

In one of the most spectacular games ever seen on the local field, Coach Butterfield's lightweight warriors defeated the Covina aggregation by the extremely lopsided score of 37 to 0.

Glendale scored in the first five minutes of play. Covina receiving and punting. The ball was rushed from the middle of the field to the twenty-yard line, from where Willard Roberts let loose with one of his long-end runs, barely getting over the line before being nabbed by Huggins, left half for the visitors. A pass failed from the five-yard line, and the score was six. This first score seemed to downhearten the Lemons, while the young Dynamiters gained fresh strength, and from then on the going was easy, the locals crossing the invader's line six times.

"Kelley" Shuler appeared to be about the brightest light on the field, getting off repeatedly for gains of from ten to twenty yards. Roberts and White were not far behind him as a matter of yardage gained, and it was this trio that made the points, each getting two. All passes and backs failing to make the extra point after a touchdown. Shuler tried a drop-kick on the last marker, and it was this that made the total score eleven.

Flock of Substitutes
On the flanks, Neil Melver showed some real skill, very few "end runs" getting past this clever little player.

In the last half, Coach Butterfield sent in a flock of substitutes, who kept up the good work of their fellow players, and scored the same number of points. Badour, substituting for White at full, was "going strong" until the last quarter, when he was knocked out. Nuff, who was sent in at center in place of Jeter, showed up real well, and promises to become a star in his three more years of football.

Most of the gains for the visitors were made by Mulrooney and Huggins, fullback and half, respectively, who managed to sneak through the line on several occasions.

The line-up was as follows:
Glendale: REL McAllister, RFL Searies, LFL RFL Putnam, RGL Lockridge, Jeter, C Reed, Melver, LER Jessup, Burns, LIR Schofield, Moirish, LIR Howard, Lo, FREQ Q Prey, Schuler, RHL Huggins, Roberts, LER Williams, White, LIR F Mulrooney.
Covina: Budd Munn, Lockridge, Reed, Jessup, Schofield, Howard, Prey, Huggins, Williams, Mulrooney.

FOOTBALL DISPUTE IS YET UNSETTLED

Result of Iowa and Yale Game Fails to Decide Gridiron Argument

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Few will accept the result of the Iowa-Yale game as settling the perennial question of which is better at football, East or West.

This does not detract a whit from the clean-cut victory which Howard Jones' husky Hawkeye team scored of the Bull Dog at New Haven on Saturday.

The Westerners proved themselves superior in every branch of the game. It is unfortunate that this game was the one big inter-sectional contest of the season, for two reasons:

First—Yale showed conclusively it is not on present form the representative football team of the East. There are at least six elevens in these parts who could have taken the Bull Dog's measure on Saturday.

Second—Ted Jones kept his promise—Yale took the game "in its strides." The Blue had obviously made no special preparations for the game.

Generalship and variety of plays, two of the most important factors in success at football, were lacking from the Eli squad.

By decisively defeating Yale, however, the Iowa eleven has carved out for itself a stiff future for the remainder of 1922.

You never can tell. Many a man with the dearest little wife in the world would swap her for a cheaper one.

THOSE SOME DAY JOBS

I have a great sense of peace today. The peace that every housewife, and I suppose every business man or woman feels on a certain occasion. And that occasion is when he or she has cleaned up a batch of odd jobs. The kind of things that one is always just going to do, and that are inevitably pushed off by the immediate, must be done, daily duties into that some day which might often better be called no day.

She Appointed a Some Day
(Once when I was a child and my mother had put me off many times by saying I could do this or that "some day." I asked her if she would please appoint a certain day and have it "some day." And, being the kindest mother that ever lived, she did.)

I have a method of getting these odd jobs done to which I resort every once in a while. It is a simple method, but efficacious. Perhaps you will say, "Oh, yes, I always do that," when I tell you what it is; or then again perhaps you will say, "I don't see how that would help any."

The Joy of Crossing Off
I write down a list of these some day jobs, and then I post it on the wall above my desk, and then I keep at those jobs every spare minute. I cross each one out when I get it done until finally they are all crossed out and I have a right to take that list down

Household Duties Just As Important As Senatorial Affairs Says Woman Senator

Who said that a woman of 87 couldn't peel apples or take her household duties in hand? Much less be a United States senator at that age. This shows Mrs. W. H. Felton, first woman U. S. senator who succeeded enator Tom Watson, upon the latter's death, at her home at Cartersville, Ga.

Make a List of Your Own
My list that I posted last week had items on it like this:

Get ready bundle for associated charities.
Write letter about mistake in J. bill.
Send flower seeds to Mrs. G.
Sort over and send away magazines.
Sort over linen.
Clean best silver.
Etc.
Etc.

I won't go on with it. Any housewife can fill in for herself. Through each task a beautiful black line has been drawn. Don't you envy me?

Book Reviews

A DOG AND HIS DIVINITY

Christopher Morley's new book, "Where the Blue Begins," that Doubleday, Page & Co. published recently, is Mr. Morley in a different vein. The book is Morley at his best—his cheery, wheezy, capricious fancy in a delicate vein. The hero is a dog—a wistfully, complacent, philosophical dog in search of a divinity. In the department store where he is the prince of floorwalkers, the favorite of Mrs. Daschund and all the wealthy patronesses, in the chapel controlled by the fashionable Miss Airedale, which Bishop Borzoni intrusts to him as lay reader, on the steam roller escaping his infuriated pursuers, commanding a strange ship at sea, always he seeks a divinity who is as elusive as the horizon where the blue begins. Morley has a happy time dallying with this delightful whimsy, rambling amiably along from one quaint absurdity to another. It is a bubbling, irresponsible story which owes much of its charm to the comfortable feeling that absolutely anything may happen next. There is also a light edge of satire, and, like all fairy tales, there is a meaning—if one is looking for meanings.

FOUR-SQUARE

"That tower of strength which stood four-square to all the winds that blow" (Tennyson) is the theme of "Four-Square," a recent publication of Doubleday, Page & Co., of which Grace S. Richmond is the author. A most interesting story of a beautiful, talented girl at the turning point of her career, interwoven with a charming love story. In one direction is the attractiveness of the city, with fame and fortune easily reached; in the other, life in a quiet little college town, and an uphill struggle for worthy achievements.

Her heart shows her choice between Mark Fenn, always standing four-square to the winds as the tempest of her ambition threatens to wreck her career, and John Kirkwood, brilliant, sophisticated (and a "prominent" editor).

Those who loved "Red Pepper Burns" and remember how the profession of medicine was made human and revealing through the portrayal of the likeable red-haired physician, will turn eagerly to Grace S. Richmond's depiction of the trials and triumphs of the great teacher.

Practical Housekeeping by Florence Austin Chase

LAUNDRY WORK

Laundrying is a science and an art that is a pleasure to practice if one has skill. The thorough washing of clothing is a most important branch of household sanitation, upon which the health of the family and of the whole community depends, for disease is communicable by means of garments and those are imperfectly cleansed in unsanitary houses and possibly in commercial laundries.

However, there are many commercial laundries today where everything is spotlessly clean and where skilled labor is employed and intelligently directed to insure clothing as clean as it can possibly be made.

Water is the great cleanser, and if it is not used freely, the washing is a failure. All other agents are merely aids to the water or substitutes for it. The sun and air are also purifiers, and clothing should be exposed to their action for drying whenever possible. There is a sweetness in air and sundried clothing that no artificial drier seems to give. Heat is a purifier, oily substances being more readily removed by hot water and soap than by cold; and the boiling temperature of water renders bacteria and organic matter harmless.

Some mechanical action that forces water through the fabric is necessary, and the method of accomplishing this is one of the important problems in laundering. We seek a method that will be thorough, that will not injure the fabric, and that will be thorough, and that will economize the muscular energy of the worker. Beating, pounding and rubbing are the old methods, the use of the machine the new, and that is the best machine that meets all the requirements of properly conducted washing process.

Water—The water should be soft and clean. Hard water prevents the soap from lathering, and this must be counteracted for laundering. Hardness of water can be overcome only by the addition of some substance like ammonia, borax or soda.

Soap—Soap is the most useful of the cleaning agents added to water. In these days soap can be much better made in the factory than it can at home. In the factory the alkali is proportioned by weight, so that a little free alkali is left as possible. Such soap is called "neutral." Resin is added, in yellow laundry soaps, and is supposed to aid in forming suds. When there is an excess of resin, as in some soaps, it is hard to rinse it out and colors the cloths. Borax is sometimes added to soap, and is useful when the water is hard, but not necessary in soft water. Naphtha or some other petroleum oil in soaps increases the cleaning property of soap by dissolving fatty or greasy impurities.

Soap Solution—A soap solution is essential for use in the boiler and in washing machines and is useful for rubbing on spots before washing.

To make soap solution, cut up soap and dissolve it in hot water. One pound soap to one gallon of water. It should be strong enough to jelly when cool, and may be kept in jars ready to use. Even more convenient are soap chips and granulated soap, and there are some very good brands of these put out by reliable firms. Copyright, Cronk Syndicate, 1922.

BEAUTY CHATS

BEING LAZY

It may not be necessary to suggest to the average woman the value of rest and relaxation. Modern domestic conveniences and a whole changed standard of living have taken us very far from the days of our great grandmothers, when constant activity was held to be a virtue. Cynics tell us that nowadays women do nothing compared to their ancestors, but the cynics are always wrong. Girls in offices and factories work more strenuously than the grandmothers who ran spinning wheels.

I think today that we have a less even distribution of labor. Life is much harder for some and much easier for other women. To all those who are employed, either with house, factory or office work, I simply want to say that there is health and enjoyment and increased efficiency in a certain amount of well directed laziness.

If you are doing your own housework you can get through your daily tasks in actually less time if you lie flat on your back or lounge deep in a chair for a five-minute rest every hour. Of course, if you are so strong that housework does not tire you, then you do not need the rest. I am speaking only of the woman whose house and children are just a little bit too much for her. In other words, of eight women out of ten.

If you are an office worker, you may have to find your lazy periods outside the hours of employment, though business firms today are realizing the benefit of these periods of relaxation. I only want to impress on you that work done nervously, at top speed, is not as good as work planned by a fresh brain and rested hands. A little laziness is a very good thing.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes' department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So, if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

A. Gelmor Conducts Two Tailoring Shops

A. GELMOR
Prominent Glendale Tailor

Twenty years ago a young Russian lad left his parents in his native home in Kiev and came to America to the great melting pot of the world. That lad was Abraham Gelmor and the two tailoring shops he maintains in Glendale at 138 S. Brand boulevard and 212 N. Brand boulevard stand as the materialization of the dreams he dreamed twenty years ago.

As a boy in Russia Abraham Gelmor had learned the tailor trade and when he arrived in New York City he took up his trade. After years of work in New York Mr. Gelmor went to Chicago and after spending several years there he decided to come to California with the hopes of having a business of his own and realizing further success.

That was three years ago and when Mr. Gelmor arrived in Los Angeles he heard of Glendale, "the fastest growing city of its size in America," and he thought he saw a promising future for a tailoring business here.

He opened a shop on East Broadway and through satisfactory and courteous service he created a growing business that increased with such rapidity that larger quarters were necessary, and the result was the move to Brand boulevard and shortly after that the opening of a second shop.

"I have enjoyed success here," says Mr. Gelmor, "my business is fine and I hope that by the time three more years have passed that Glendale people will be educated to trade exclusively at home. As in other lines they can find satisfactory tailoring service here. I now have a splendid winter stock on hand and am looking forward to making a spring buying trip to New York City."

Mr. Gelmor and his family reside at 413 South Adams street.

Let Paint Stand the Wear

It Saves the More Costly Material Which It Covers

PAINTED wood does not wear out, because the paint stands the wear. Paint is therefore the secret of durability in homes.

That is why it is economical to keep a home always well painted. Paint costs much less than repairs. Compare the prices of paint and lumber as evidence of this fact.

The second secret of economy is to use the best paint for all painting. The best paint spreads easily—it saves labor cost. It covers more area per gallon than "cheap" paint.

So paint your house when it needs it and use only the best paint.

The best paints are scientific in formula and preparation. We've made them for 73 years—to meet the weather conditions in the West.

The best materials—PIONEER WHITE LEAD, pure linseed oil, pure zinc, and pure colors—are combined in Fuller's Paints in scientifically exact proportions with long-time skill.

Free Advice on Painting

Ask our agent for advice, color cards, etc. Ask the Fuller Specification Department about the most desirable color schemes, color harmony and any other details. Take advantage of Fuller House Paints, painting now. Don't let weather depreciate your investment.

PROPOSITIONS UP FOR VOTE GONE INTO A MEET

Bert Woodard Tells C. of C. Members What They Must Decide Nov. 7

The thirty propositions that will face the voters at the November election were explained briefly to members of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce at their weekly meeting yesterday noon. They were urged to especially study Nos. 10, 11 and 30.

Bert P. Woodard, former city attorney, was the principal speaker, going over each of the propositions and explaining what the voters will decide when they cast their votes.

A number of new members were present at the meeting and were introduced by Chairman Roy L. Kent.

Jesse E. Smith, chairman of the committee having the proposed reduction of fares on the Pacific Electric under charge, reported that the matter is now in the process of the law. Nothing definite can be reported until a decision is rendered, he stated.

New Car Line
P. J. Hayselden was then called upon to tell of the progress being made on the electrification of Glendale avenue.

Jesse Smith's problem will be solved by the advent of the new railroad," declared Mr. Hayselden. A complete report is promised for the next meeting on the new car line, as it was announced that it would be impossible to give it until that time.

The committee on the new Southern Pacific depot, of which George Bentley is chairman, reported that the committee is now waiting for word from officials of the railroad.

Roy L. Kent, chairman of the committee handling the annexation of territory in the north end, stated that the petitions are now completed.

Secretary James Rhoades urged all who can attend the meeting next Tuesday night when the San Fernando Valley Associated Chamber of Commerce is to meet here. The meeting is to start at 6:30 o'clock, and local business men are being urged to attend and help boost the valley. About 100 are expected to attend from other cities.

CHIEF RULE OF THE ROAD
The man on your right has the right of way. If this were remembered generally, says Del H. Lewis, acting executive chairman of the American association, many fatal accidents could be avoided. Says Lewis: "The rule of the road is that the driver on the right has the right of way and there should be a severe punishment for any person who violates that rule."

Pasadena Star-News Out for Richardson

The Pasadena Star-News, a daily newspaper published in Pasadena and well known for its independence in politics and high moral tone, recently published the following editorial relative to the candidacy of Friend W. Richardson, Republican nominee for governor:

"Friend W. Richardson, Republican candidate for governor of California, is receiving very encouraging assurances of support all over the state. Many who heretofore have been affiliated with the other political parties are coming out for Richardson. 'The people like Mr. Richardson's stand for economy and efficiency in state government. They have confidence in his pledges and the pledges of the Republican platform on which he is running. Taxpayers feel that this state needs an administration strongly devoted to retrenchment. Mr. Richardson not only promises to effect economies, but he also gives assurance that, while cutting down expenses, he also will increase the efficiency of the state government. 'On other questions Mr. Richardson's views and convictions meet with general favor. His long residence in California and his thorough familiarity with its conditions and problems fit him in exceptional measure, to be an able, useful and successful governor of the commonwealth. 'Upon his record in public life, and his character and capabilities as man and citizen, coupled with his demonstrated devotion to the material and moral welfare of the state, Mr. Richardson goes before the people with confidence, and his candidacy is received with enthusiasm and with every indication of winning in November.'"

Fact Fiction Magazine and Feature Page

There he was conscious and but little worse for his experience, though badly bruised. He looked at the mucker in astonishment as the two faced each other in the cabin.

"I don't know why you did it," said Theriere.

"Neither do I," replied Billy Byrne.

"I shall not forget it, Byrne," said the officer.

"Yeh'd better," answered Billy, turning away.

The mucker was extremely puzzled to account for his act. He did not look upon it at all as a piece of heroism; but rather as a "fool play" which he should be ashamed of.

Saving the life of a gink who, despite his brutal ways, belonged to the much-despised "highborn" class. Billy was puffed with himself.

Theriere, for his part, was surprised at the unexpected heroism of the man he had long since rated as a cowardly bully. He was fully determined to repay Byrne in so far as he could the great debt he owed him.

All thoughts of revenge for the mucker's former assault upon him were dropped, and he now looked upon the man as a true friend and ally.

For three days the Halfmoon plunked helplessly upon the storm-wracked surface of the mad sea. No soul aboard her entertained more than the faintest glimmer of a hope that the ship would ride out the storm; but during the third night the wind died down, and by morning the sea had fallen sufficiently to make it safe for the men of the Halfmoon to venture upon deck.

There they found the brigantine clean-swept from stem to stern. To the north of them was land at a league or two, perhaps. Had the storm continued during the night the ship would have been dashed upon the coast. God-fearing men would have given thanks for their miraculous rescue; but not so these. Instead, the fear of death removed, they assumed their former bravado.

Skipper Simms boasted of the seamanship that had saved the Halfmoon—his own seamanship of course. Ward was cursing the luck that had disabled the ship at so crucial a period of her adventure, and revolving in his evil mind various possible schemes for turning the misfortune to his own advantage.

Billy Byrne, sitting upon the corner of the galley table, hunched with his hands. These choice representatives of the ship's company were planning a raid on the skipper's brandy chest during the disembarkation which the sight of land had rendered not improbable.

The Halfmoon, with the wind down, wallowed heavily in the trough of the sea, but even so Barbara Harding, wedged with days of confinement in her stuffy cabin below, ventured above deck for a breath of sweet, clean air.

Scarce had she emerged from below than Theriere espied her, and hastened to her side.

"Well, Miss Harding," he exclaimed, "it seems good to see you on deck again. I can't tell you how sorry I have felt for you cooped up alone in your cabin without a single woman for companionship, and all those frightful days of danger, for there was scarce one of us that thought the old hooker would weather so long and hard a blow. We were mighty fortunate to come through it so handsily."

"Handily?" queried Barbara Harding, with a wry smile, glancing about the deck of the Halfmoon. "I cannot see that we are either through it handsily or through it at all. We have no money, no canvas, no boats; and though I am not much of a sailor, I can see that there is little likelihood of our effecting a landing on the shore ahead either with or without boats—it looks most forbidding. Then the wind has gone down, and when it comes up again it is possible it will carry us away toward the land, or if it takes us toward it, dash us to pieces at the foot of those frightful cliffs."

"I see you are too good a sailor by far to be cheered by any questionable hopes," laughed Theriere; "but you must take the will to consideration—I only wished to give you a ray of hope that might lighten your burden of appreciation. However, honestly, I do think that we may find a way to make a safe landing if the sea continues to go down as it has in the past two hours. We are not more than a league from shore, and with the jury mast and sail that the men are setting under Mr. Ward now we can work in comparative safety with a light breeze, which we should have during the afternoon. There are few coasts, however rugged they may appear at a distance, that do not offer some foothold for the wrecked mariner, and I doubt not but that we shall find this no exception to the rule."

"I hope you are right, Mr. Theriere," said the girl, "and yet I cannot but feel that my position will be less safe on land than it has been upon the Halfmoon. Once free from the restraints of discipline which tradition, custom, and law enforce upon the high seas there is no telling what atrocities these men will commit. To be quite candid, Mr. Theriere, I dread a landing worse than I dread the dangers of the storm through which we have just passed."

"I think you have little right to fear on that score, Miss Harding," said the Frenchman. "I intend making it the memory of his consideration and respectful treatment of her during the trying weeks of her captivity had done much to erase the intuitive feeling of distrust that had tinged her thoughts of him earlier in their acquaintance, while his heroic act in descending into the fore-cabin to the face of the armed and desperate Byrne had thrown a gleam of romance about him that could not help but tend to fascinate a girl of Barbara Harding's type. Then there was the look she had seen in his eyes for a brief instant when she had found herself locked in his cabin on the occasion that he had revealed to her Larry Divine's duplicity. That expression no red-blooded girl could mistake, and the fact that he had subdued his passion spoken eloquently to the girl of the fineness and chivalry of his nature, so now it was with a feeling of utter trustfulness that she gladly gave herself into the keeping of Henri Theriere, Count de Cadenet, Second Officer of the Halfmoon.

"O Mr. Theriere," she cried, "if you only can but arrange it so, how relieved and almost happy I shall be. How can I ever repay you for all that you have done for me?"

Again she saw the light leap to the man's eyes—the light of a love that would not be denied much longer other than through the agency of a mighty will. Love she thought it; but the eye-light of love and lust are twin lights between which it takes much worldly wisdom to differentiate, and Barbara Harding was not worldly-wise in the ways of sin.

"Miss Harding," said Theriere, in a voice that he evidently found it difficult to control, "do not ask me now how you may repay me; I—" but what he would have said he checked, and with an effort of will that was almost incredible to the eye he took a fresh grip upon himself, and continued: "I am amply repaid by being able to serve you, and thus to retrieve myself in your estimation—I know that you have doubted me; that you have questioned the integrity of my acts that helped to lead up to the unfortunate affair of the Lotus. When you tell me that you no longer doubt—that you accept me as the friend I would wish to be, I shall be more than amply repaid for anything which it may have been my good fortune to have been able to accomplish for your comfort and safety."

GORGEOUS CEREMONIES HELD IN CHINA AT GHOST FESTIVAL

Friendless Spirits Wander About; Millions of Chinese Conduct Serious Services

By EDNA LEE BOOKER
For International News Service

SHANGHAI.—The festival for the Friendless Ghosts is being celebrated by millions of Chinese throughout China.

On the first day of the seventh moon, according to Chinese superstition, the gates of purgatory are thrown open and thousands and thousands of ghosts who have died without descendants come forth into the land of the living for a month or six weeks of good times. Every household, especially those having any relatives among these unfortunate ghosts, takes part in the celebration, which lasts at least a month.

Shanghai, although a city where east and west meet, and where many believe that the Chinese are becoming foreignized, are dropping their old customs and taking up the ways of Europeans and Americans, is observing this festival on a most extensive scale. In the Chinese city the priests in the City Temple are saying masses for the unhappy ghosts; paper money is being burned for them; and liberal offerings of food are being brought to the temple by the people.

Parade City God
The city god, a great gilded idol, was taken out of the temple recently to head a procession which wound its way through the streets en route to a very ancient burying ground. The procession, most picturesque and colorful, was made up of hundreds of Chinese. The city god, who rode on a throne, was carried by richly-costumed coolies. Priests followed in his wake playing their cymbals, wind instruments and drums. There were boys carrying miniature paper and bamboo rickshaws and automobiles; household furniture, garments, boats and food—which were to be burned at the cemetery for the use of the friendless ghosts in the spirit land. A great dragon, more than a hundred feet long, ravenly colored and typical of Old China, undulated through the streets, carried by coolies. Men and women, wearing gorgeously embroidered red and gold and blue costumes and head-dresses, rode on horses, with their hands shackled.

Upon inquiring, I found that the men and women on horseback were either ill or just recovering and that they promised to be bound to the service of the city god for a period of from one to three years, provided they were completely cured. Fantastic flags of many colors of satin and silk added to the charm of the spectacular procession.

Colorful Customs
As you ride through the streets of the International Settlement you catch many glimpses of the colorful customs which are observed by the Chinese living side by side with the Americans. Rows and rows of beautifully made paper garments, including coats, trousers, hats, are festooned in front of hundreds of houses and at night the red candles burn on the ancestral altars in the majority of the Chinese homes, and offerings of food, clothing and money are made to their ancestors, while in the courtyard and on the curbs of the streets the tiny fires, where paper clothing, money and articles, which can be used by the dead, are lighted.

This is the season of the year when the ghosts are abroad, and many hair-raising tales are told which remind one of the thrilling ghost stories which are told in parties in America.

While the worship for the dead is held every day during the festival, the 15th day of the month is the climax of the celebrations. The festival is a Buddhist introduction based on the worship of ancestors. For the foreign community this feast is called All Souls' Day.

As discussed previously in this column, notwithstanding the rapid popularity of vacuum tube detectors, the crystal is still in great demand, and from time to time we feel we must draw attention to the fact.

UNCLE WIGGILY LAYS A RUG

"Bang! Bang! Bang!"
"Whack! Whack! Whack!"
"Thump! Thump! Thump!"

Those were the sounds you might have heard one day, if you had happened to be near Uncle Wiggily's hollow stump bungalow. And you might have thought it was the rabbit gentleman throwing snowballs at the Woolly Wolf or the Fuzzy Fox.

But there were three reasons why this would not be the truth. One was, there was no snow on the ground, and, in consequence, Uncle Wiggily couldn't throw any of the cold, white balls.

In the second place neither the Woolly Wolf nor the Fuzzy Fox happened to be near the bungalow. The Fox came later, but we'll get to that part a little farther on in the story.

And in the third place, Uncle Wiggily was wearing a rug for Nurse Jane. It was the bunny beating the rug that made the sounds of:

"Bang! Whack! Thump!"
"There!" exclaimed the bunny rabbit, tossing aside the stick he had been using. "I guess that rug is clean," and he twinkled his pink nose sideways to stop the dust from tickling it.

"Yes," spoke Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy, the muskrat lady housekeeper, as she stood in the kitchen doorway, "the rug is very clean. Uncle Wiggily. Now if you will help me lay it straight on the floor you may go off adventuring."

"That's what I'll do—I'll lay the rug and then adventuring I will go! Ho! Ho! Adventuring I will go!" he sang. At least, he called it singing, though—well, why bring up something unpleasant, I ask?

Uncle Wiggily carried the rug into the living room, where the rug lived with tables, chairs, the piano and so on. Whistling a cheerful little melody, Uncle Wiggily spread out the rug, from the folds he had put in when he took it off the grass, and laid it in the middle of the floor.

At least he thought it was the middle of the floor, but when Nurse Jane came in she held up her paws and said:

"Oh, Wiggily, my dear! You have the rug all to one side. Please pull it a little closer to the piano."

"All right!" agreed the bunny cheerfully, and he gave the rug a little pull to one side. Nurse Jane, standing in the doorway, gave another look and said:

"Oh, Wiggily, I'm sorry, but now you have the rug a little too near the table! Just pull it a bit more this way, like a good chap."

Still whistling, but not so sweetly as before, Uncle Wiggily gave the rug another yank.

"Oh, my dear!" cried the muskrat lady housekeeper. "Now you have it too far toward the easy chair. Just give it a small tug, that's a sweet rabbit."

Uncle Wiggily grunted and gave the rug another pull. Nurse Jane said nothing for a moment or so.

"Well, is it all right?" asked Mr. Longears, truculent like and challenging.

"Well," slowly replied Nurse Jane, "of course some housekeepers would say it was all right. But if Mrs. Twisttail, the pig lady, should happen to call—Wiggily, my dear, I know I seem very fussy, but—if I should ask you to pull the rug just the least bit nearer the desk—why would you—Oh, so sweet of you!" exclaimed Nurse Jane.

"For Uncle Wiggily, without saying a word, or without whistling, had moved the rug again."

"There, now, it's just right!" exclaimed Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy.

"Where are you going?" asked Nurse Jane.

"To get the hammer and tacks," answered the bunny. "I'm going to tack the rug down, now that you say it's right, so it can't be moved again. I'll tack it down."

"All right!" said Nurse Jane. She went out of the room to make a carrot shortcake, and while Uncle Wiggily was getting the hammer and tacks, the Fuzzy Fox sneaked into the room where the bunny had laid the rug.

"Oh, ho! I know what I'll do!" whispered the Fox. "I'll creep under the rug and hide. Uncle Wiggily will never see me. I can stay there until after dark and then I can sneak out and nibble his ears."

The Fox crawled under the rug, just before Uncle Wiggily returned with the tacks and hammer. The bunny gave one look at the rug and saw a hump in the middle.

"Dear me!" thought the bunny. "That rug has humped itself all up. Now, I'll have to go through all the pulling again until I get it laid straight, and Nurse Jane has gone out and—"

"Oh, oh! That bad chap is hiding there!" said the bunny to himself. Then he whistled and spoke aloud, saying: "Well, I guess the rug is good enough as it is. I'll tack it fast."

Then the bunny quickly tacked down the rug, and the Fox didn't know what was going on, so he didn't try to come out. And when the last tack was hammered in the Fox couldn't get out whether he wanted to or not.

"Ah, ha!" cried the bunny. "Now I have you, Mr. Fox! Send for the police dog, Nurse Jane! When the police dog came, Uncle Wiggily pulled up a few tacks on one side, and when the Fox came out he was arrested and sent to jail. And he's there yet, if he hasn't gotten out."

Now, if the wheelbarrow will kindly stand up on its handles and turn itself into a merry-go-round for the June Bug, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and Susie's tripper.

Robert Herman used his wife's bathrobe when he went swimming in New Jersey. On the beach he found a chamis bag with $8,000 worth of jewelry and turned it over to the police. At home when he casually mentioned the matter to his wife she fainted. They were her jewels. Even when a man thinks he is doing the right thing he gets into trouble.

JUDGE BLEDSOE MAKES ADDRESS

Federal Jurist Gives Views On Various Amendments on State Ballot

"I have been working along the same lines for many years," he answered. "This is the greatest privilege that could come to me."

An interesting bit of entertainment was given by the First Methodist church quartet, consisting of the following: Dr. P. O. Lucas, Paul Butterfield, Howard Butterfield and Dr. Raymond Lusby.

Harry A. James also brought forth laughter with his English stories, being called upon to relate a number of them.

Rev. W. E. Edmonds of the First Presbyterian church was called upon to speak, and briefly told of the growth of the organization. Asking charter members of the organization to stand up, it was found that about twenty-five of those present have belonged for the ten years. Rev. Edmonds then introduced Judge Bledsoe as a native son of California.

Questions on Ballot
In choosing his subject, Judge Bledsoe stated that he had taken the one nearest him. He told the men that insufficient time has been allowed the voters of the state to carefully study the important matters that must be settled. He called attention to the fact that the books being distributed by the secretary of state explaining the propositions were not published until October 7, and most of the books not yet distributed to the voters.

"I wonder if democracy isn't being overworked in California at the present time," said Judge Bledsoe, "we may have to let the pendulum swing the other way again."

"It is too much for any normal individual to familiarize himself in the time allowed."

In speaking on the Wright Act, the judge declared that one of the things that help to put the Eighteenth amendment across was Rule G, on the railroads of the country, which prohibits any railroad man from coming to California.

"The Eighteenth amendment is binding upon every citizen of California no matter what they say. The Wright Act does not add to the law, and our duty remains the same whether it is carried or not."

"The passage of the Wright Act will take a burden off my soul that doesn't belong there. I hear cases every day that should not have to be handled by a judge, but left to the police and others. The act makes it possible to enforce the amendment in all of California."

Other subjects coming up for vote, and mentioned by the judge were propositions No. 16, 20 and 28, which have to do with Chiropractic, the Osteopathic act, and prohibiting vivisection. He declared himself to be against the three propositions, adding that "we should not place ourselves under control or disposal except to those who are best able to prescribe treatment as needed."

"We should welcome the various cults to California," he declared, "but permit them to practice only after being examined by those competent to treat and diagnose sickness."

Some Other Measures
"The life of one human being is worth more than all the cats and dogs since the beginning of time," declared Judge Bledsoe on Proposition No. 28.

Proposition No. 29 was declared to be an unwise thing to adopt, it covering land franchise taxation. He pointed out that the adoption of Proposition No. 27 in regard to the initiative would put a stop to the single tax question.

"The initiative is being overworked in California," he said. "If any measure appeals to the majority it will be passed."

The water and power act was also discussed and opposed.

"I believe Proposition No. 19 is but an entering wedge leading to nationalism of industries in the United States. The scheme on its face is fundamentally wrong," said the speaker.

It was declared that the act puts a premium of failure as it is provided that more bonds can be issued and taxes added to take care of any deficit that might come up.

"It would amount to a political and industrial machine in California," said the judge.

Writes From East, Visiting Old Home
In a letter received by R. M. McGee from Mrs. McGee, who is on an extended visit to her old home at Boaz, Illinois, she states that her father, W. C. Wade, has fully recovered from his recent serious illness.

Mrs. McGee states that she is enjoying immensely the opportunity of again mingling with old friends, and the fried chicken and buttermilk biscuits taste fully as good as when she was a small child.

She attended a session of the Illinois state Sunday school convention held at Joppa, and was called on to assist in the singing, and rendered several vocal solos. Mrs. McGee will return to Glendale the early part of November.

SOCIAL EVENTS

LITERARY SECTION MEETS
The opening meeting of this season for the members of the literary section of the Tuesday afternoon club was held yesterday afternoon at the home of the curator, Mrs. J. E. Sargent, 717 North Louise street. An interesting review of the book "Gentle Julia," by Booth Tarkington, was given by Mrs. W. H. Verity, which was followed by a general discussion. The various members present gave interesting accounts of their vacation experiences. Plans were discussed for the Society Bazaar to be given by the club in November and at which the literary section will have charge of the apron booth. During a social hour which followed refreshments were served.

MRS. BOYNTON HOSTESS
Mrs. Frank H. Boynton of 421 East Windsor road entertained informally yesterday afternoon with a shower in honor of Miss Marjorie Judson of Pasadena, who will return in about a month as a missionary to China from the Presbyterian church. Suggestive of the voyage which Miss Judson is soon to take the shower of gifts was brought in in a little boat with sails flying, by Little Bobby Hinrod, and presented to the guest of honor. The house was decorated with bouquets of golden rod and during the afternoon dainty refreshments were served.

THURSDAY AFTERNOON CLUB
The members of the Thursday afternoon club of Glendale of which Mrs. William C. Mabry is president, are busily engaged in completing plans for the bazaar to be given by that organization on Wednesday, October 25, for the benefit of the clubhouse fund. The ways and means committee, of which Mrs. E. V. Bacon is chairman, is receiving donations of every kind, and other friends of the club wishing to co-operate may do so by notifying Mrs. A. L. Bancroft.

Toll will be the speaker at the regular meeting of the members of the Columbus Avenue Parent-Teacher association to be held at the school tomorrow afternoon at 2:15 o'clock, with Mrs. C. H. Thompson, president, in charge. There will also be a question box and refreshments will be served.

WOMEN'S GUILD TO MEET
The regular meeting of the members of St. Mark's women's guild of the Episcopal church will be held Thursday afternoon at the guild hall, with Mrs. Mortimer Baker, president, in charge. Mrs. B. O. Holbrook, chairman in charge of the social and dinner will be given by the guild at the church Thursday night, announces.

MANY PEOPLE COMING HERE
Over 125 shipments of household goods a month are being received over the Southern Pacific, according to C. D. Thedeker, local agent. He considers this business more than satisfactory. He says that it is unusually heavy for this time of year.

Police Watch Home of Murdered Rector
NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Oct. 18.—A cordon of New Jersey state police today surrounded the home of Mrs. Edward Hall, widow of the rector of the fashionable Protestant Episcopal church of St. John the Evangelist, who, with his beautiful choir leader, Mrs. James Mills, was murdered on the night of September 14. Mrs. Hall and her eccentric brother, "Willie" Stevens, both of whom were questioned at great length on Tuesday, live in the Hall residence.

The drastic measures taken to watch members of the Hall family indicated that the authorities believe that they will prove important factors in solving the mystery.

The violent outbreak of activity on the part of Somerset and Middlesex county authorities on Tuesday, giving rise to belief that arrests might be expected hourly, had abated today and it was admitted that the officials "did not know when an arrest might be expected."

Mrs. Hall was informed that she would be questioned again today and she would be compelled to account for every minute of her time between 8 o'clock on the night of September 14 and the early hours of September 15. It was in that interval that Dr. Hall and Mrs. Mills were shot to death on the Phillips farm where their bodies were found on September 18.

SHOPPING BASKET
A shopping basket mounted on two wheels and guided by a long handle is an English invention.

JOURNEY IS BARRED
"I'm not a common tramp, your honor," said the tattered individual who was charged with vagrancy.

"What are you, then?"
"I'm a tourist. I started out to see America."

"Your tour will be interrupted for six months. Next case."

PHYSICIAN GRILLS FREUD THEORIES OF DREAMLAND

Noted British Doctor Takes Rap at Idea; Lots of Nonsense, He Says

By THOMAS C. WATSON
For International News Service.
LONDON—A famous British physician has struck a blow at the Freudian theory on dreams. Apparently the oft-quoted old psychologist has analyzed dreams out of all proportion to their importance.

That is the opinion of Sir Bruce Bruce-Porter, Knight of the British Empire and a commander of the Order of St. Michael and St. George, in addition to being one of King George's private physicians.

"A modern woman," says Sir Bruce, "dreams of shipwreck. At once she reads a pseudo-scientific book and imagines she is the victim of some complaint. A modern man dreams he sees a cat walking across a field. On waking he rushes to Freud to see what is the matter with him."

"Nonsense," He Says
"All this is nonsense. A dream is a perfectly simple and normal act of the sub-conscious brain. Take the case of a man playing the piano. He does not have to think of every note; nor has he to analyze every chord. If it were necessary piano playing would be impossible. All this work is done by the sub-conscious mind, whereas the conscious mind is thinking out the actual meaning and the emotion of what he is playing."

"So it must be realized that we have two minds—a sub-conscious one and a conscious one. When we dream we dream with the sub-conscious one, and the other one for the moment is non-existent. Ordinarily the sub-conscious one is directed by the conscious one, but when one sleeps the conscious mind is at rest, and therefore the sub-conscious one can wander at will."

"What happens? Images flicker by unchecked with the rapidity of a moving picture film. All the pageant of life buzzes past, as meaningless as a futurist picture. Yet from this unintelligent hotch-potch people are foolish enough to imagine they can discover their innermost souls."

Dreaming More Now
"We are dreaming more today than we have ever dreamed in the past. The more civilized we become the wilder become our sleeping sensations. Our grandparents went to bed in comparative peace. They had no movies, no evening sensational newspapers, whereas we go to bed with a thousand disturbing distractions."

In the street the newsboys may be calling the toll of some new tragedy. The telephone may be ringing. In the distance there is the rush and sound of trains and street cars. In fact, the night is packed with a myriad sensations. Our minds are heated and alert. So we dream."

"The old-fashioned view that a nightmare is due to lobster salad is perfectly correct. Lobster gives a pain, and that pain is communicated to the brain. If the man were awake he could control the pain. But he is asleep, so the sub-conscious brain runs riot. Out of the depths jump the demons and monsters."

"Many morbid people desire dreams. This is putting too much work on the sub-conscious brain, and the sub-conscious brain requires as much rest as its brother. So the healthiest man is the one who enjoys dreamless sleep."

Say Preacher Must Heal Congregation

LONDON—A great faith healing campaign, aimed to cure all bodily and mental sickness by means of the "Physic of the Galleian" method, is about to be organized in England by Dr. Samuel Benson, the famous American faith healer and late secretary of the eastern branch of the American Bible society, who is now in London for that purpose.

One of the objects of this crusade is to "challenge every minister who preaches the gospel of God to heal the halt and lame of his congregation, as well as to render to them spiritual succor," and Dr. Benson is supported by many prominent British Free churchmen in his endeavor.

"The healing side of the gospel has never been taken hold of in its true and literal sense as a great savior of human suffering," said Dr. Benson, in an interview.

"There is something radically wrong with the minister who cannot relieve the bodily sickness of any member of his congregation—by prayer or faith, anointing with oil, or by the laying on of hands. The healing ministry must be restored to the church as she knew it in the third and fourth centuries."

Dr. Benson claims to have found the "Physic of the Galleian" when, out in the Arizona desert, he was cured of pneumonia.

New Attack Opened Upon Lloyd George

LONDON, Oct. 18.—A political attack was opened upon Premier Lloyd George from an entirely new quarter today when Lord Gladstone, a member of the premier's own party, made a speech declaring that Mr. Lloyd George and his "present policy are both unacceptable to the liberals."

Twin Baby 'Slaying' Proves Police Puzzle

HAMMOND, Ind., Oct. 18.—Mrs. Hazel McNally, the 26-year-old blonde wife of a 47-year-old machinist, who accuses her of slaying her twin babies, was to be arraigned in city court here today.

The young woman will contend, it was indicated, that she did not give birth to the babies and that she used two dolls as a ruse to appease her husband's eagerness for children.

Shortly before court opened Deputy Prosecutor Joseph Todd said he would present evidence against Mrs. McNally which would remove all doubt as to her guilt. Guided by lanterns, police last night dug up the yard in front of the home where McNally lived last April when the "phantom twins" disappeared. The search developed nothing.

The authorities were also investigating the report that on September 30, ten weeks before Mrs. McNally is alleged to have given birth to the twins, she wanted to adopt an infant.

One of the star witnesses in court today, it was indicated, will be Mrs. James Griffiths, a nurse, and at one time next-door neighbor of the McNallys, said she saw Mrs. McNally in bed with two twin forms beside her.

The husband, Frank McNally, who was away from home when the twins are alleged to have been born, has admitted that he never actually saw the faces of the babies.

Residents of Hammond, greatly excited over the case, are divided in judgment. A majority are inclined to the story of the "make believe mother."

Policies Announced In Fight for Bonus

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 18.—Diplomatic rather than militant methods in continuing its efforts to secure "adjusted compensation" for the country's ex-service men will be the national policy of the American Legion during the coming year.

This was decided at a conference today between those high in the Legion's hierarchy and reflected in a resolution adopted by the resolutions committee from which all criticism of President Harding for vetoing the soldiers' bonus bill and of the senate for failing to pass it over his veto was carefully eliminated.

In its final form the resolution does not include the views of the more radical element in the Legion who were insisting that a verbal "roast" of the President and congress was essential to a renewal of the bonus fight.

It was predicted, however, the resolution which authorizes the Legion's national officers to press hard for the enactment of bonus legislation during the coming year, will be adopted when presented to the convention.

THEATRES

The T. D. & L.

Remember Richard Barthelmess' thrilling fight with the Heppburns in "Tol'able David"? Well, your hair will simply stand on end when you see him as Joe Newbolt in "The Bond Boy" at the T. D. & L. theatre. He is condemned for a murder he didn't commit and he breaks his jail bonds and flees with a pack of bloodhounds on his trail.

You'll gasp at this and you'll catch your breath at the tragedy on the Newbolt farm. You'll love the hero for his chivalry to womankind, his honesty, his self-sacrifice and bravery. He's a humble hero, too, the son of aristocratic parents, forced by circumstances to bond himself out to the services of an unscrupulous farmer.

The Glendale

The attempt of a far eastern capitalist to obtain possession of a huge fleet of ships owned by an American shipping company, "Reported Missing," the film attraction at the Glendale Theatre.

The high lights of the picture are a race between a hydroplane and a hydroairplane, a ship wreck, a rough and tumble fight in the villain's house, a series of comedy scenes, made only as Henry Lehrman, master of laughter, knows how to make them, and the gowns' work by the statuesque Nita Naldi and the flapper like Pauline Gordon. Owen Moore carries off honors by being "Reported Missing."

Urges Citizens to Inspect Laundries

Citizens of Glendale have been urged by Mayor Spencer Robinson to inspect local laundries during "Visit Your Laundry Week," which is to be observed throughout the country from October 24 to 27.

A proclamation has just been issued by the mayor which calls attention to this second annual event. The message follows: "Whereas, the modern laundry has become an important factor for cleanliness, sanitation and health in our community, and

"Whereas, this institution has brought to many homes a service which has banished from the household much of the old time drudgery, and

"Whereas, the laundries of this city have thrown open their doors to the public during the week of October 24-27, in observance of America's second national 'Visit Your Laundry Week,' and

"Whereas, it is to the interest of everyone to become familiar with the conditions under which our family linens are laundered, and to assist in giving all possible publicity to methods which vitally concern so many homes;

"Therefore, I, Spencer Robinson, as Mayor of the City of Glendale, do respectfully urge that every citizen who finds it convenient, participate in 'Visit Your Laundry Week.'"

Given under my hand and corporate seal this 18th day of October, A. D. 1922.

SPENCER ROBINSON,
Mayor of the City of Glendale.

Seek Four Bandits Who Robbed Jeweler

CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—Police today are making a systematic search for four bandits who late last night kidnaped and robbed Max Moser, a diamond salesman and broker of New York, of gems valued at between $275,000 and $300,000.

The robbery occurred downtown, in Michigan boulevard, just as Moser had entered the automobile of a friend, Charles J. Morris, a representative of the New York Life Insurance company, to be driven to the railroad station to catch a train.

Guns were leveled at Moser and Morris. When they protested they were forced into the back of the car, driven away and robbed. Moser told the police he met Morris at a dinner earlier in the evening. Moser said he represented the New York diamond firm of Jacob Schoen, six, Maiden Lane; Louis Whitelaw, 68 Nassau street, and Samuel Lehnovsky and Son, 71 Nassau street.

Gem robberies totalling more than $2,000,000 have been reported to the Chicago police in the last two years.

NEW YORK—An expert can distinguish the iridescent tail feathers of the peacock in the dark simply by the feel. Dr. Wilfred D. Bancroft of Cornell University declared recently. The feather fringes are only flattened plates colored brown. The colors he said, are not due to pigments, but to the flatness of the feather parts which produces an interference of light from the two sides. The same colors are seen in a film of auto oil spilled on the street.

As the colors produced on the practically colorless oil depend on the thickness of the film, which averages about one fifty-thousandth of an inch, so the patterns on a peacock's tail and the apparently self-luminous reds in the throat feathers of the hummingbird are due to the variations in thickness.

When you look through a peacock brown due to the so-called melanin pigment, which is equivalent to the asphalt pavement on which oil is spilled. In all the iridescent feathers the barbules are flattened plates of brown, which therefore give the colors of thin films.

Can Duplicate Colors

"It is possible to duplicate the color effects of the peacock and the hummingbird," claimed Dr. Bancroft, "by putting a very thin coat of varnish over the dark feathers, but we cannot regulate the thickness with such accuracy as to produce the patterns of the peacock. When one considers that variations in thickness of a hundred thousandth of an inch may change the color completely, it seems marvelous that all the tail feathers of all the peacocks can be so near alike."

The neck feathers of the white pigeon show practically no iridescence because the dark background is lacking. If they are dyed brown the iridescence appears in full force. On the other hand the white peacock is not an albino in the sense of merely having no dark pigment. The whole structure of the feathers has changed. The barbules are not flat plates and consequently no brilliant colors can be developed by dyeing the feather brown or painting the back with India ink."

The register of the Topeka land office has a land patent issued by Abraham Lincoln to an Indian at Fort Scott as bounty for fighting in the war of 1812. Which indicates that congress had a "bonus" fight on its hands once before.

DANCING CLASSES ARE BEING HELD AT CLUB NOW

Eagle Rock Children Taught on Two Days of Each Week, Announcement

The beautiful ballroom at the Twentieth Century Woman's club in Eagle Rock was the scene yesterday afternoon of the second of a series of dancing classes composed of Eagle Rock children under the supervision of Mlle. Yvonne of Los Angeles.

Mlle. Yvonne, who appears but a few years older than her young pupils opened her classes last week, and will give lessons Tuesday and Fridays of each week. She is said to be exceptionally well qualified to teach the best of the Italian, Russian and Spanish types of dancing. She was a pupil of Ruth St. Denis, and has studied in the most noted eastern schools, and has also appeared under the personal direction of a number of famous Los Angeles exponents of modern and classical dancing.

In addition to her Eagle Rock classes Mlle. Yvonne maintains her own studio in Los Angeles.

The man who marries a woman for her money will work ten hours a day to pay the interest.

Bank Account Now Back of Ball Team

The Eagle Rock Merchants, the new baseball club recently organized in Eagle Rock and the personnel of which is composed entirely of players residing or doing business in Eagle Rock now has an official financial standing.

Yesterday afternoon the money and accounts were turned over to George Van Sands who was appointed secretary and treasurer, and the funds to the credit of the team were placed on deposit in the Eagle Rock bank.

All the loyal supporters who contributed to the financial maintenance of the team are invited to inspect the secretary's accounts so that they may at all times know how the money is being spent.

Hallowe'en Dinner Given on Birthday

Mrs. I. B. Carlock of 415 Lincoln avenue entertained with a Hallowe'en dinner party at her home Monday night in celebration of the birthday anniversary of her husband, I. B. Carlock.

Decorations carried out the Hallowe'en motifs and colors. The guests included Mr. and Mrs. W. Hobbs and Mr. and Mrs. Moyse Grant of Pasadena, Mr. and Mrs. F. Farnham and William Cross of Glendale.

San Francisco papers marvel over a girl who walked nine miles in her sleep, overlooking the many who have been walking in their sleep all their lives.

EAST END P.T. A. PLAN SURPRISE FOR MEETING

Eagle Rock Association Give Program for Friday Affair at School

The East End Parent-Teacher association of Eagle Rock has a surprise in store for all who attend its next meeting, Friday, October 20 at 2:30 p. m., it is announced.

The guest of honor is to be "Lizzie," who has taken up her residence out in the east end neighborhood, and who has met with a most enthusiastic reception.

"Lizzie" has let it be known that she is disposed to take up her permanent abode in Eagle Rock where it is claimed she will become a most useful and welcomed member of the community.

It is claimed that "Lizzie" is a most efficient person and will help solve some of the most trying problems; that she never gets tired, and is ready to go to work at a moment's notice and assist any busy housewife, and show her how to be well dressed at small cost. In addition to all this "Lizzie" has promised to help raise money to go toward paying for the new piano at the East End school house.

Will Give History
After the reception given in the honor of "Lizzie," Mrs. C. W. Young will give a talk on "The History of Eagle Rock Valley." Mrs. Young, it is said, can give data and historic facts relative to the early history of Eagle Rock that are known to but very few people.

Helen and Mary Hughes will sing a duet and there are to be several other musical numbers. Refreshments will be served, and the room represented by the most mothers and friends will be given a special treat.

It has been requested by the officials that all those who so desire, donate a cup, small plate and inexpensive spoon to furnish the cupboard, for use in serving tea.

W. F. Tower Appeals for People to Vote

Editor The Evening News—A great opportunity presents itself to the voters of California this fall. An opportunity not only to place California in the ranks of loyal progressive states, but by so doing exert an influence for good government throughout the entire nation. How? By casting a majority vote for the (W) Right bill and by electing Friend Richardson for governor. The situation confronting us has obliterated party lines. The issue is modification, bootlegism, anarchy on one side and patriotism, enforcement, law and order on the other. Woolwine representing the former and Richardson the latter.

As to the outcome, it all depends. The former will get the wet votes, all the guzzlers, bootleggers, law breakers of the entire state. To offset this Richardson needs and desires all the votes of the law abiding, patriotic progressive men and women. Good intentions will not win success—they must be crystallized into ballots.

This last class of voters are in a large majority, but they are as rule more easy going, less likely to vote. If I had my way I'd add 10 per cent to the taxes of every non-voter—of everyone who shirks this responsibility. This will conserve our national safety. Under present conditions it is your duty and mine, friend, vote-to vote ourselves and see to it that our friends vote. This is a crisis. Let us measure up to it.

PLAN BOOKLET TO ADVERTISE CITY BEFORE WORLD

Eagle Rock Realty Board and C. of C. In Joint Meeting

Much was accomplished and considerable headway gained from the joint meeting last night of the publicity committees from the Eagle Rock Realty board and the Chamber of Commerce, that met to discuss plans for the proposed new booklet that is to advertise the beauties and attractions of Eagle Rock to the world.

It was arranged that the secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, George Van Sands, be a chairman of the publicity committee to have general charge of the written matter in the booklet and confer with the publicity committees of both organizations before any final action, and submit same to the executive committee of the Chamber of Commerce. He is to be assisted by Miss Jennie Swensen, Dr. Shedd, Mrs. Archibald Fisk, Mrs. Blanche Gardiner, Mrs. C. W. Young, Mrs. R. L. Woodhouse as literary collaborators.

Committees Appointed
W. J. Cook, city treasurer; W. R. Johnston, and Mrs. Mary A. Hickson were named as statisticians, and Mrs. Ray Rees and T. C. Thompson were appointed as art assistants.

It was agreed that the booklet should be approximately nine by four inches so as to be readily enclosed in a large sized business envelope. That it should be printed in tri-colors; that the front outside cover should have an artistic cut of some dahlias draped over a picture of the Eagle Rock, reading "Eagle Rock," "The Dahlia City," and somewhere toward the bottom of the front cover feature a view of a portion of the Broomhall Dahlia farm.

It was also suggested that the pages of the booklet in addition to the written matter have cuts of the following: Two views from the hills, the new city hall, the new theatre, the new high school and grouped around it the several grammar schools, the library, views from the Occidental college, Judge Craig's home, the Christianson home, Mrs. Jennie C. Brayton's home on Hill avenue, perspective view of the new bank, the Caddell building, the Twentieth Century Woman's club, the Presbyterian church, and a view on Kenilworth avenue and the Besselo residence.

City's Slogan
It was also suggested that in some appropriate position on the back cover, the slogan "We LIVE Here" be included. It was the consensus of opinion of all members of both committees that the meeting was marked by decisive action, that there was not the slightest dissension between any of the members, and that everyone was pulling together toward boosting Eagle Rock.

Those present were J. B. Brown, president of the Eagle Rock Realty board; C. W. Young, chairman of the publicity committee from the realty board; Miss Jennie Swensen, member of the publicity committee of the Chamber of Commerce; H. G. Warren, member of the committee from the realtors, and also vice-president of the Chamber of Commerce; E. N. Greaves, member of the committee from the realtors, and George Van Sands secretary of the Chamber of Commerce.

NEW CAFE OPENS
The Sunnyland Cafe at 212 So. Central avenue, Eagle Rock, opened its doors this morning under new management.

John Murray and John Conway, from Los Angeles, old experienced cafe men, who bought out the former owners, Messrs. Ryan and Shankland, are the new proprietors, and state that they propose to conduct the cafe along the same lines that has made the Sunnyland a popular place for diners.

J. R. Grey Opposes Additional Bonds

Editor The Evening News—It is now almost a year since the already greatly overburdened taxpayers voted bonds in the sum of $685,000 to provide adequate high school accommodations commensurate with the needs of our rapidly growing city and that would afford the proper facilities for the high school students. Yet the board of high school trustees, whose plain duty it is to proceed with the work of procuring these facilities, either from indifference or willful neglect, fails to carry out the expressed will of the voters of this district and construct the necessary buildings!

Groaning under a load of greatly increased taxation, as witness the tax bills now being received through the mails, we are boldly confronted with the demand that we must either produce an additional $350,000 to gratify the whims of these school trustees for ornate display or they will not "play." A spokesman for the trustees abuses the taxpayers; he belittles them—and all because taxpayers and friends of education in this district dare to take issue with the foolish and unwarranted demands coming from the school trustees.

The question of commissions has been raised relative to one or more of the sites being offered. That alone, in view of some of the reports reaching me, should have the effect of defeating the bond issue. I am informed that the bonds voted nearly a year ago have been sold and are drawing interest. We taxpayers are paying that interest and in the meantime nothing is being done to build the high school—except to ask the taxpayers for $350,000 more! The bond election for this sum is set for next Friday, October 20. Perhaps a reorganized high school board may see fit to build a high school in the Glendale district.
